Description: What is it?

- We're going to add the festival items from year 1 into the loot pool of Joxar's Spare Inventory Crate

Problem: What problem is this solving?

- There are over 750,000 users, but only 80,000 joined in the first year and had access to the seasonal items from year 1's festivals
- Compounded artificial scarcity: select whales buy up the limited market and resell at ~5x
- Concerns about ageism pop up, as a third of the player base was too young by site rules to have an account in 2013-14, the first year of festival cycles

Sidebar: why Joxar's Spare Inventory Crate?

- Adding all ~130 Y1 festival items to JSIC's ~2,000-item pool means they comprise only ~6% of pulls. Oversaturation of supply is mitigated
- The 11 Sprites (the most-sought items) make up only 0.05% of the pool. At ~4,000 JSIC purchases per festival, that's ~20 Sprites entering supply per month—a safe influx

Why: How do we know this is a real problem and worth solving?

- According to this report, unretiring Y1 festival items is the most desired change to FR
- Mirrored by sustained forum demand in FRD and Suggestions threads

Success: How do we know if we've solved this problem?

- Market normalization: Prices for the 11 Sprites on AH trend downward over 12 months post-launch; specific equilibrium threshold TBD given small supply influx
- Sentiment: Net positive reception in announcement thread, FRD, offsite public forums
- Risk monitoring: Track veteran-player and whale backlash; if forum sentiment turns net-negative on the policy itself (not just the rollout), revisit drop rate parameters

Audience: Who are we building for?

- ~80% of active player base, who joined FR after May 2014

What: Roughly, what does this look like in the product?

- Eng goes into the codebase and manually adds all the items from the first year of festivals into the item pool for Joxar's Spare Inventory Crate
- PR carefully words announcement, remaining mindful of both veteran and new players, explains reasoning of JSIC reintroduction in palatable manner

When: When does it ship and what are the milestones?

- Launch during the next anniversary, as that's when the festival cycle resets. (Preferred)
- OR, wait until the Brightshine Jubilee, and announce it then.
